GRI CERTIFICATION TRAINING FOR NGOs & DEVELOPMENT ORGANIZATIONS

www.impactingafrica.com

STRENGTHEN IMPACT REPORTING & ACCOUNTABILITY USING GRI STANDARDS

Build the capacity to measure, communicate, and report sustainability, social impact, governance, and organizational performance using GRI, the world's most widely used sustainability reporting framework.

A STRATEGIC CAPABILITY FOR THE DEVELOPMENT SECTOR

Increasingly, funders, development partners, donors, governments, and stakeholders are placing greater emphasis on transparency, accountability, measurable impact, and sustainability performance.

NGOs, development organizations, social enterprises, implementing partners, and impact-driven enterprises are increasingly expected to demonstrate not only programmatic outputs and financial accountability, but also:

- Long-term impact,
- Institutional accountability,
- Governance practices,
- Sustainability outcomes, and
- Responsible resource management.

This GRI Certification program helps NGOs and development professionals strengthen the reporting and disclosure capabilities needed to respond to these evolving expectations.

Applying GRI across the development & NGO sector

Sustainability and impact reporting are increasingly becoming part of institutional accountability, donor communication, governance, and long-term organizational credibility for development organizations

This training is especially valuable for professionals interested in:

- Strengthening impact reporting and organizational accountability
- Integrating sustainability and non-financial disclosures into annual reports, donor reports, and institutional reporting systems
- Improving ESG, governance, and sustainability disclosures for donors, development partners, governments, and stakeholders
- Communicating programmatic, environmental, and social impact more credibly and consistently
- Strengthening monitoring, evaluation, accountability, and learning (MEAL/MEL) reporting systems
- Improving transparency around governance, partnerships, funding utilization, and institutional impact
- Aligning organizational reporting practices with evolving global sustainability and accountability expectations

WHY TRAIN WITH US

PRACTICAL DEVELOPMENT SECTOR PERSPECTIVE

This training is designed specifically for NGOs and development organizations navigating increasing expectations around accountability, transparency, sustainability reporting, ESG disclosure, and impact communication.

The program connects sustainability reporting directly to real development sector priorities including:

- Donor and stakeholder accountability,
- Impact communication,
- Governance and transparency,
- Sustainability integration,
- Institutional credibility, and
- Long-term organizational resilience.

SECTOR-RELEVANT LEARNING EXPERIENCE

Participants engage with:

- NGO and development sector case studies,
- Sustainability and impact reporting exercises,
- Peer discussions and collaborative learning,
- Practical disclosure applications,
- Reporting frameworks and best practices, and
- Mock assessments and exam preparation.

STRENGTHEN ACCOUNTABILITY & SUSTAINABILITY REPORTING FOR GREATER IMPACT

Equip your organization and teams with globally recognized sustainability reporting expertise designed for the evolving development and non-profit sector.

Whether you are strengthening donor reporting practices, improving impact communication, managing sustainability initiatives, or building institutional accountability systems, this program equips professionals with the practical reporting and disclosure capabilities needed to support transparency, stakeholder trust, organizational credibility, and long-term impact.

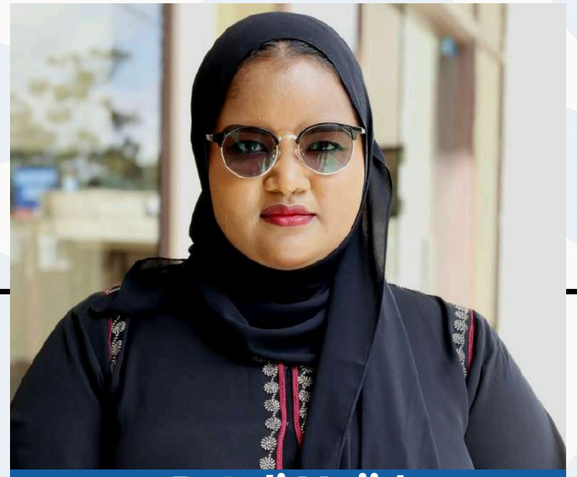

OUR TRAINERS

Our facilitators combine technical sustainability reporting expertise with practical experience supporting organizations across Africa on ESG disclosure, impact communication, institutional transparency, and sustainability reporting systems.

Collectively, the team has trained thousands of professionals across NGOs, development organizations, financial institutions, corporates, and advisory firms.
